Frary

From page 11 ceremony, Mrs. Bell said, "The children were happy as clams there because they had such beauty and freedom to roam."

Mrs. Frary is known for her love of music, education and her children. Many stories are told of her gathering the children around her organ to sing.

Frary is known for his enterprise, his love of astronomy, education, and family. He was involved in many excursions that led him back and forth across the lake in search of his fortune.

Life on the island was not all fun in the sun, especially for Mrs. Frary who was frail and ill, said Mrs. Bell. "Winters were very cold and the heat would shrivel the garden in the summer."

"Oh, they had good memories, but it was a hard life and tainted with sadness," she said.

While living on the island Mrs. Frary bore two more children, Frank and Florence.

When Florence was born Mrs. Frary was weak and ill. When Florence was 6 weeks to 2 months old Mrs. Frary died at the age of 38.

Mrs. Bell said, "I talked to my mother about (Mrs. Frary's death) and she said she thought grandmother was just worn out." The Bentleys took the baby and raised her. The Walkers helped the children while their distraught father traveled and worked.

At the age of 14, Mrs. Haskins was put in charge of the little family. She read to them from her mother's books and tried to teach them. Lottie became ill and was taken to Salt Lake where she died of diphtheria.

The children later left their desert home to attend school and raise families of their own.

All that is left of their life on the island are stories, a few broken souvenirs, rocks where their house once stood and their mother's grave, where Mrs. Bell said, "she had expressed a desire to spend eternity on their lovely desert island home."

Promise

From page 11 up," he said.

"We would have liked to have seen this happen sooner," he said. He said because of limited access to the island since the Antelope Island causeway was washed out in the early 1980s, historical research has been hampered.

"Despite that, Bill Holt gave his opinion of how it ought to be laid out and we've pretty well followed that," Larsson said.

Larsson asked the historical committee to research the history of the Fielding Garr ranch about five miles south of the Frary homestead. The ranch was originally built by Fielding Garr, a cattleman, with finances from the LDS Church.

It is said that Brigham Young spent summers at the ranch and kept horses and cattle there.

Holt said the society will be dedicating a twin plaques on the ranch, but not until the island becomes more accessible.

"We'll sort of put it on the back burner until then. But you know, you just can't do Syracuse history without running into the island," he said.

Miracles are real.

Evangelist Bill Lampson has witnessed miraculous moves of God everywhere he has gone.

Cape Girardeau, Missouri - a 9-month-old baby had no bones in the toes of one foot since birth. After prayer, the toes were instantly restored! This creative miracle is documented with before and after x-rays as well as affidavits from the child's doctor.
